Beauty and elegance begin as you drive up the sweeping curved driveway and continue as you enter the spacious and breathtaking foyer. Here you see a graceful balcony staircase to the privacy wing, a draped ornamental iron railing view of the recreation room and a charming, vaulted beam ceiling in the living room.

Practicality with easy traffic flow was designed to permit access to any area from the foyer. Elegance is also emphasized through such features as the living room and dining room facing the rear garden for formal and casual entertaining.

The 16' Colonial Kitchen offers counter-space galore and eating space for any size family.

The master bedroom is planned to please the heads of the household with a walk-in closet and a private bath. Two additional bedrooms on this level mean a quiet sleeping and study area for other family members. The distribution hall is large enough to allow for the dramatic use of a desk and telephone center. The family bath is centrally located and has attractive appointments.

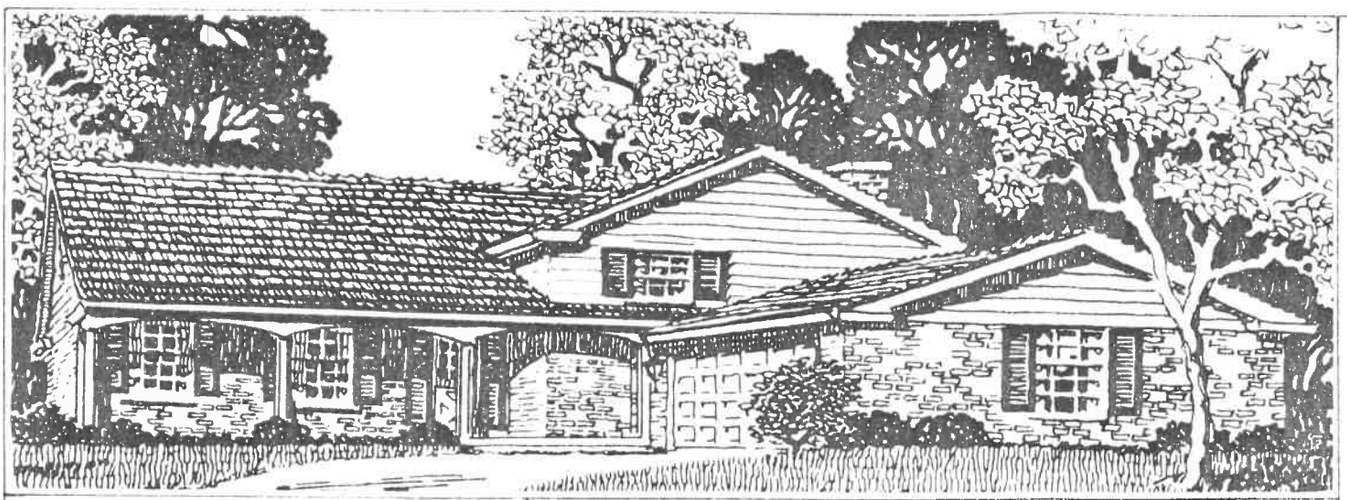

In the activity level, there is a 29' finished recreation room, a convenient powder room, a bonus storage closet, utility room and a concrete crawl space, handy for storing out-of-season items. The recreation room is designed to be divided into a fourth bedroom study, or guest room, if desired.

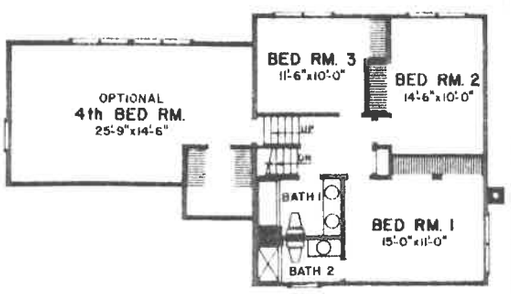

An attached two car garage, accessible through the foyer near the kitchen provides additional important storage space for keeping lawn mowers, garden tools or other often used outdoor equipment.

The CONNECTICUT is the ideal home! The home is planned for those who seek full family comfort, beauty, convenience and privacy.

This exquisite home is a beautiful expandable bi-level with styling reminiscent of a golden era. The exterior is graced by the warmth and charm of shutters, Colonial front door and a protective pillared portico. Handsome fully tiled separate foyer eliminates undesirable cross traffic. Twin Colonial windows in the living room provide beauty and flexibility for creative decorating. The separate formal dining room features a step-saving pass through wall into the kitchen. The well planned kitchen is enriched with a luxurious bow bay window eating area overlooking the rear garden. In addition, a dramatic balcony overlooks the family room, allowing Mother to also share in the family activity.

Only a few steps down from the kitchen level is the family room with closet and convenient powder room—and a separate laundry utility room.

On the quiet level there is a new innovation in bedroom arrangements—Three spacious bedrooms are located in one wing. A huge fourth "dormitory" bedroom, is separated into an alternate wing. The dormitory room is ideal for the growing family—can be completed later, finished for a hobby room or a private office for Dad.

The master bedroom has "His and Her" closets with a private bath. The family bath is conveniently located to the other bedrooms and has a double bowl vanity.

The oversize garage offers important storage for out-of-season items.

Schools:

All Arlington Heights residents pay taxes to three school districts: an elementary school district, High School District 214 and Harper Junior College District 512. All school districts are governed alike in that a seven-member school board, elected by the public on staggered three-year terms, is charged with full power to provide a sufficient number of schools and to operate those schools and levy taxes to support them. Each school board selects the district superintendent (or President, in the case of the junior college), the adminstrative head of the district, whose duties include employment and supervision of all personnel, public relations and all phases of educational programs and policies.

Most Arlington Heights families have homes in elementary District 25. However, those in the southern areas of the village may be within District 59, and those on the far north side may be with District 21 or District 23. Although varying in size, all districts have a similar educational program.

Arlington Heights is a large, primarily residential suburb located along the northwest "finger of communities" paralleling the C&NW Railroad. The post-war surge to the northern suburbs increased the village population 218% during the 1950's and the town's population has increased by another 32,000 during the last 9 years. Originally called Dunton after its founder, the village changed its name to Arlington Heights because of its altitude, 704 ft. above sea level (106 ft. higher than Chicago). A good highway system is readily available but the C&NW remains the primary method of commuter travel, and nearly 6,000 Loop commuters use these facilities daily.

Village History:

The actual history of Arlington Heights began with the arrival of Asa Dunton and his family from New York in 1836. Dunton took a homestead here for himself and each of his two sons, then left the area. His son, William, returned to lay out the town along the Illinois and Wisconsin Railroad tracks.

In the next two decades the town flourished. A hotel was built; a sewing machine factory and foundry begun. The village suffered during the depression but revived during the post World War II prosperity and since that time has experienced a fantastic growth, both in size and population. While performing all the necessary services to keep pace with this rapid growth, the village has developed comprehensive long-range plans for improving the downtown area and is attempting to attract industry into other areas of the village to balance the community and stabilize the tax base.

Village Government:

Incorporated as a village in 1887, Arlington Heights derives all its powers from the state legislature, principally as contained in the Revised Cities and Village Act of 1941, as amended. Since 1954, the village has operated under the council-manager form of government in which an elected president and board of trustees determine all policy and appoint a village manager to administer all functions of the village.
